

Joe & Georgia Hancock - Omaha NE & Council Bluffs IA

After 38 years with Dr. Vinyl, Joe and Georgia Hancock made the decision to sell their franchise and enter retirement. A wonderful couple we believe God chose, Andy and Julissa Nesler, became the new owners on May 1, 2022. "God has blessed this business from the beginning. We have been blessed with wonderful employees. They, along with our sons, daughters-in-law, grandson and grandson-in-law have made Dr. Vinyl the reputable business it is today. It is with sincere gratitude, we want to thank them for their years of service."

"We want to thank the staff at headquarters for their support. Richard for always being there for us. Buster we watched grow up into the wonderful, caring man he is today. Vickie, what can we say, always with a smile and ready to help. David and Teresa, thank you for the training services you provide. Steve thank you for coming to Omaha to help out when we were overwhelmed with upholstery. Tony and Renae thank you for the great job you do providing us with supplies. Kaylan thank you for the service you provide. We are thankful for the time we spent with so many of you at the conventions through the years sharing ideas, talking and laughing together. "

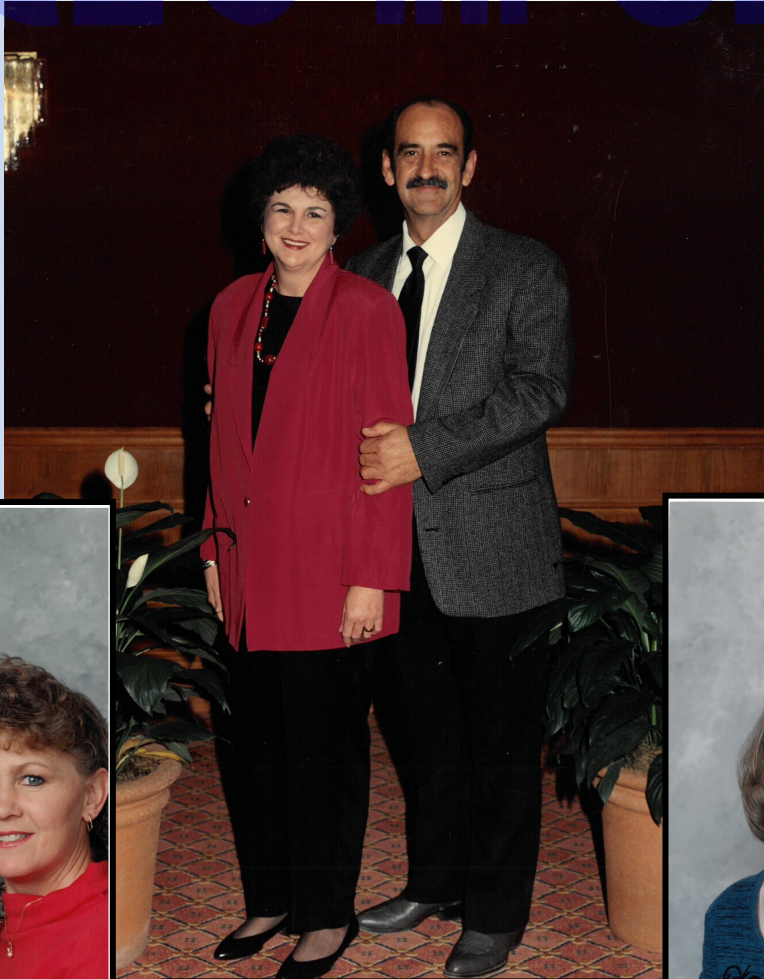

We will miss every one of you.
